

Women at Work

A Dante Alighieri Society Sydney's initiative

A series of late afternoon meetings taking place every two months, to discuss professional issues faced by women in the workplace today, with the aim to supporting professional development opportunities for women engaged in various industry sectors in the Australian job market.

The meetings will be hosted and facilitated by Committee members of the Dante Alighieri Society Sydney, with the participation of guest-speakers and subject matter experts who will share their experience in the workforce and their professional successes and failures, both in Australia and abroad. Participants will have the opportunity to gain valuable insights into ways to maximise their professional development.

Potential topics for discussion:

- ❖ Gallup strengths
- ❖ Working in multicultural and multilingual contexts
- ❖ Gender and professional opportunities
- ❖ Impactful resumes and successful job interviews
- ❖ The impact of the current pandemic on work practices
- ❖ Psychology at work: interpreting organisational dynamics
- ❖ Negotiation strategies for women in the workplace
- ❖ Work-life balance in the 21st century

To express your interest, please send an email to enquiries@dantealighieri.com.au including Women at Work in the subject

Frequency: Every 2 months

Cost: free

Timing: 5.30pm – 7pm

Location: Cellinis Restaurant,
Queen Victoria Building Sydney

Dante Alighieri Society Sydney hosts:

Antonella
Beconi

Cristiana
Palmieri